The Poisonwood Bible—Barbara Kingsolver 2008-09-04 Barbara Kingsolver’s acclaimed international bestseller tells the story of an American missionary family in the Congo during a poignent chapter in African history. They carry with them to Africa all they believe they will need from home, but soon find that all of it— from garden seeds to the King James Bible—is calamously transformed on African soil. Told from the perspective of the five women, this is a compelling exploration of African history, religion, family, and the many paths to redemption. Suffering and the Sovereignty of God—John Piper 2006-09-13 In the last few years, 9/11, a tsunami, Hurricane Katrina, and many other tragedies have shown us that the vision of God in today’s churches in relation to evil and suffering is often frivolous. Against the overwhelming weight and seriousness of the Bible, many Christians are choosing to become more shallow, more entertainment-oriented, and therefore irrelevant in the face of massive suffering. In Suffering and the Sovereignty of God, contributors John Piper, Joel Erieksson Tada, Steve Saint, Carl Ellis, David Powlison, Dustin Shramek, and Mark Talbot explore the many categories of God’s sovereignty as evidenced in his Word. They urge readers to look to Christ, even in suffering, to find the greatest confidence, deepest comfort, and sweetest fellowship they have ever known.
